

Setting Up Your Android with Microsoft Exchange 2010

Note: This article is a general guide for setting up Android devices. The steps may vary depending on the OS that you are running.

Prerequisites

Before you can use ActiveSync to set up your email account, you must have an ActiveSync license and it must be assigned to your email address.

1. On the Home screen of your Android device, select the Email icon.

2. On the Set up email screen, enter in your full email address and password and then select Next.

3. On the Add email account screen select Exchange account.

4. On the Exchange server settings screen enter your entire email address preceded with a \ (backslash), select the Use secure connection (SSL) check box, and then select Next.

Note: Depending on the OS that is running on your device, you may see only Domain as an option. If so, you can leave this field blank.
